The conference will take place in Milan on 3 and 4 December 2012 and aims at analyzing the most recent developments on clinical mycotoxicology; prevention and control activities in mycotoxicology by Italian medical institutions; issues arising from trade globalization; and activities of Italian inspection and supervisory bodies. It also highlights some of the most important advances in scientific investigations, thereby extending mycotoxicology from a mere anthropocentric view to additional aspects that range from mycotherapy to environmental toxicology and bioremediation.
