

Remove an account from the trusted list

(new user interface)

Version 1: 01.02.2024

To enable secure transfers, each account may include any receiving accounts in a list of trusted accounts.

Operator, aircraft and maritime operator holding accounts can only transfer allowances to accounts included in the trusted list, while trading accounts can also transfer to non-trusted accounts.

The holder of an operator, aircraft and maritime operator account can choose to derogate from this rule, thus reducing the level of security of the account, by requesting the possibility to transfer also to accounts not included in the trusted list. This choice is not final and security conditions can be restored by the account holder at any time (for more information and instructions on how to request such change, please refer to the Changing the account security levels page of the ARIET website).

Authorized account representatives can add or remove accounts from the trusted list based on the account holder's needs: as with transactions, adding or removing an account from the trusted list also requires action from two authorized representatives having the right, respectively, to initiate and approve processes.

The addition of a new account to the trusted list is completed at 12.00 on the fourth business day following the approval of the second authorized representative. In the meantime, the addition process can be cancelled. Conversely, removing an account from the trusted list is immediate upon approval from the second representative.

In the Registry, accounts of the same holder are automatically included in the trusted list of each account of that holder, and it is therefore always possible to make transfers between these accounts.

Follow the instructions in the table to propose the removal
